Students enjoy healthy breakfast during Live Life Well week

Glenbard South High School students and staff members were treated to a nutritional feast on March 3. They enjoyed a bountiful, healthy breakfast as part of Live Life Well week. Before heading to class March 3 about 700 students and staff members started their day with juice, fresh fruit, bagels and other healthy items.

Live Life Well week is designed to provide new wellness opportunities for students and staff, encourage personal growth and foster community spirit and outreach.

This special week also featured fund-raisers to help two charities. Student donations will benefit Glenbard South's emergency care fund for Glenbard South families in need and will help an effort to build a school for a tribe in Africa, where former Glenbard South student Monday Akogwu has returned.

Glenbard South thanks the following businesses for their kind donations to the event: Dominick's at Baker Hill, Einstein Bagels, Entemann's courtesy of Larry Pietras, Hughes Enterprises, Jewel Foods courtesy of Sandy Grayson, and Trader Joe's.

A special thank you to Juanita Kocanda of Jewel Foods for arranging the donation of a substantial amount of food and drinks from Jewel.

Glenbard South has a dedicated group of parents, without whose support the event would not be possible. Thanks to the following parents who donated their time and resources: Carol Adams, Amanda Batinich, Sandy Becker, Linda Berta, Earl & Marjorie Brady, David and Renee Bode, Val Carroll, Karen Diedrick, Susan Elliott, Karen Flower, Nancy Gage, Kit Grotelueschen, Cari Harks, Julie Hayes, Sandy Hayes, Rosellen Hayner, Carol Hughes, Barbara Kamm, Sara Lee, Lori Lewis, Barb MacTaggart, EJ McFadden, Jim McKean, Cathy Milleville, Lynwood Moffett, Martha Morse, Betsy Neurauter, Judy Olson, Denise Patterson, Sharon Rokosh, Cori Romano, Dan & Barb Roos, Eileen Scheidt, Jane Soderberg, Cyndi Steinbach, Lynette Trautwein, Tara Tuttle, Barb Wittenberg, and Jane Yasak.
